“Tribal Neo-Pop Art” by Laguna’s Terrell Anansi Opens at Endangered Planet Gallery

LAGUNA BEACH, CA - Laguna Beach’s Terrell Washington Anansi, an environmental painter, poet and performance artist, will exhibit a new series of collage creations using recycled materials at Endangered Planet Gallery, beginning on August 1.

Terrell’s playful and colorful new works - which the artist identifies as “Tribal Neo-Pop Art” - use cardboard, leaves, and a variety of other materials to create dramatic and vivid images with a great sense of fun.

A reception for the artist is scheduled for the evening of September 7, from 6:30 to 9:00 p.m., in conjunction with Laguna’s First Thursdays Art Walk.

Terrell’s exhibition continues through September 30. Selected works from the show, including three new limited-edition prints on 100% recycled paper, are available for viewing and purchase on-line at endangeredplanet.org.

Endangered Planet is dedicated to the preservation of the earth and its inhabitants through the arts and public awareness programs. In addition to artwork exhibitions, the Endangered Planet Gallery offers CDs, DVDs, videos, and books on environmental and cultural-protection topics for adults and children. Endangered Planet logo shirts and jackets and EarthDayLagunaBeach.org logo clothing are also featured.

A portion of sales of all artwork and other items supports the Orange County Chapter of the American Red Cross and a variety of other charities.

The gallery is located in The Lumber Yard Mall at 384 Forest Ave., Suite #13, in Laguna Beach (across the street from Café Zinc). For more information, contact Endangered Planet Gallery at (949) 497-5690 or visit the website at endangeredplanet.org.
